Dear members,

Throughout 2020, several national associations of conservator-restorers sent surveys to their members in order to assess their professional and economic situation following the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, and the more or less strict lockdowns it induced in Europe. The E.C.C.O. Committee thought that these surveys would be interesting to study, as they might offer a snapshot image of the profession during these most difficult times. The attached document presents an analysis of the questions asked in ten surveys in different European countries regarding conservators-restorers, and of some of the answers presented by practicing professionals. Indeed, a few trends seem to characterize our profession, which are worth examining and will be thoroughly investigated by the CHARTER project.

Best regards,
